PORTFOLIO MANAGER COMMENT

Emerging Markets: A Resilient December

Emerging markets outperformed developed markets in December, with the MSCI Emerging Markets Index slipping only 0.38% compared to the MSCI World Index, which fell 2.15%. However, for the full year, emerging markets significantly lagged developed markets (MSCI EM +5.0% vs. MSCI World +17.0%).

China:

Chinese equities drove the December outperformance, with the Hang Seng Index gaining 3.5%, supported by continued government stimulus aimed at reviving sluggish economic growth. Measures included infrastructure spending, reduced borrowing costs, and incentives to bolster private consumption.

Despite early-year challenges, the Hang Seng Index closed 2024 with remarkable annual returns of 17.70%, highlighting the recovery momentum in the second half of the year.

Japan: Strong Performance Amid Cautious Monetary Policy

Japan's markets ended December on a high note, with the Nikkei Index rising 4.13% for the month and delivering an impressive 19.2% gain for 2024.

Inflation: November's CPI increased by 2.9% YoY, slightly above expectations, marking a continued rise in consumer prices. This sustained inflation could prompt the Bank of Japan (BOJ) to consider tightening monetary policy earlier than expected in 2025.

Monetary Policy: At its final meeting of the year, the BOJ maintained rates, signalling a cautious approach amid uncertainties about economic growth and global risks.

Australasia: Mixed Signals from Australia and New Zealand

Australia:

Australian equities ended the month down 2.3% in December. For the full year, the index gained 7.5%, driven by strong performances in mining and energy stocks.

The Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) remained on hold in December, balancing signs of softening consumer spending against persistent inflationary pressures.

New Zealand:

The NZX 50 Index rose 1.7% in December and annual gains were 11.4%, supported by gains in the agricultural and healthcare sectors.

India

The Indian stock market exhibited a mixed performance, influenced by both domestic economic indicators and global developments as the Nifty500 Index ending the month down 0.62%. The market grew a robust 15,2% in 2024.

GCC Equity Markets:

The Tadawul All Share Index (Saudi Arabia) ended December up 3.1%, driven by strength in the energy and financial sectors. For the year, the index eked out a gain of 0.6%.

The ADX General Index (UAE) climbed 1.7% in December, closing the year up a massive 19.6%, supported by real estate and tourism growth.

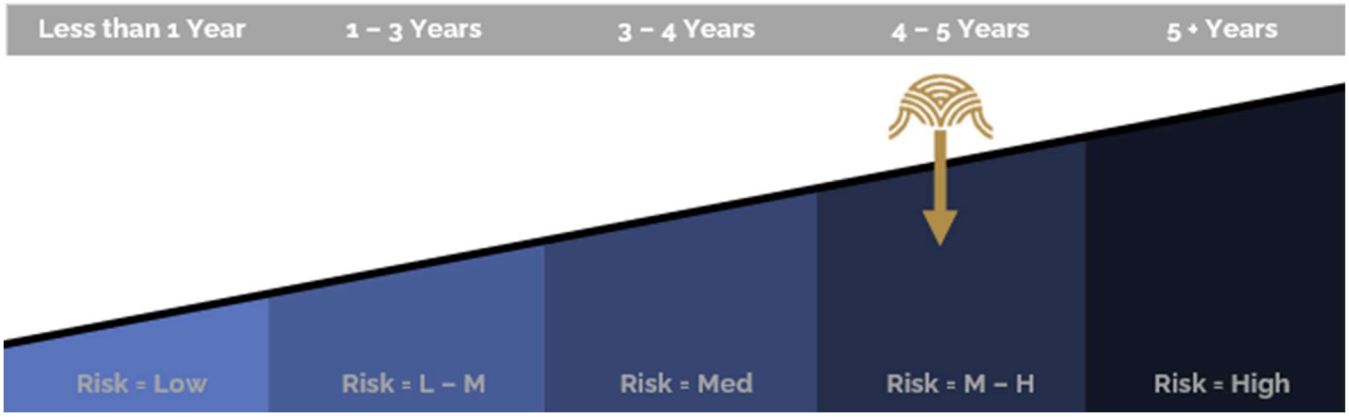

Southeast Asia: Steady Growth Amid Global Uncertainty

Singapore: The Straits Times Index climbed 1.4% in December and achieved annual gains of 16.9%, underpinned by strength in the financial sector.

Indonesia: The Jakarta Composite Index lost 1.7% in December. The index lost 2.6% for 2024.

Vietnam: Despite headwinds from slower global trade, the VN-Index recorded a modest 2.0% increase in December, contributing to full-year gains of 12.1%.

- The portfolio is exposed to equity as well as default and interest rate risks.
